

Discussing Southern Corridor in Rome

Visiting Rome is always a pleasure, of course. Recently, a visit to Rome turned even more interesting due to the conference on Azerbaijan and the Southern Gas Corridor: A Transatlantic Perspective hosted by the Istituto Affari Internazionali and Unicredit SpA. The timing of the conference, which included Ariel Cohen and David Koranyi among the speakers, was impeccable as it took place the next day after the all-important signing of the Shah Deniz II Final Investment Decision in Baku.

The setting in Rome reminded all present that the combination of energy security, economic benefits, strategic outlook and amazing cities along the route make the Southern Corridor a unique project in every respect. And, yes, it was good to see Azerbaijan's Ambassador to Italy Vaqif Sadigov again!

E.S.